

Did you know?

The average person can burn 350 calories by skating at a rate of six miles per hour. This number increases to 600 calories if the person averages 10 miles within the hour. This is the basic equivalent of calories burned while jogging.

